formed themselves into a committee of the parlor, which was tastefully decorated with cut flowers, conspicuous among the pieces being a beautiful star of double red geranium blossoms, white balsams and larkspurs, the whole surrounded by roses, ferns and pansies, resting upright on the piano. Conspicuous above the mantel hung a very antique portrait of "Old Tippecanoe," President William Henry Harrison. While in the hallway rested another portrait of the old warrior.

When the committee had entered the room, at 12 o'clock, General Harrison and his wife came down stairs. Just as Mrs. Harrison reached the last step she tripped and fell on her knees, but the accident was unnoticed by everyone and with admirable composure the distinguished lady took the general's arm and entered the parlor amidst respectful silence. General Harrison looked pale and careworn, his expression being one of deep seriousness, as he stood facing the committee. Mrs. Harrison on the contrary looked very happy and bright. She was attired in white India silk, trimmed in gimp, with high neck, long sleeves and no ornaments. On her left stood Mrs. J. N. Huston, a beautiful brunette attired in black silk and mourning ornaments and beside her stood Mrs. John C. New, also in black silk, with diamonds. Mrs. McKee, General Harrison's daughter, was indisposed and unable to leave her room, and Mrs. Russell Harrison is visiting her father in Omaha.

As the ladies took their positions beside General Harrison, Chairman Estee stepped forward and delivered the address to General Harrison. When he had concluded General Harrison read his reply from manuscript, in a full rich voice, as follows:

"Mr. chairman and gentlemen of the committee:—The official notice which you have brought of the nomination conferred upon me by the republican national convention recently in session in Chicago, excites emotions of a profound, though somewhat conflicting character. That after full deliberation, and free consultation, the representatives of the republican party of the United States should have concluded that the great principles enunciated in the platform adopted by the convention could be in some measure safely confided to my care, is an honor of which I am deeply sensible and for which I am very grateful. I do not assume or believe that this choice implies that the convention found in me any pre-eminent fitness or exceptional ability to the principles of the government to which we are mutually pledged. My satisfaction with the result would be altogether spoiled if that result had been reached by any unworthy methods or by the disparagement of more eminent men who divided with me the suffrages of the convention. I accept the nomination with a sense of the dignity of the office and of the gravity of its duties and responsibilities, and shall endeavor to discharge any feeling of exultation or pride.

"The principles of government and the practice in administration upon which the issues are now fortunately so clearly made are of so important in their relations to national and individual prosperity that we may expect an unusual popular interest in this campaign. Relying wholly upon the considerate judgment of our fellow citizens and the gracious favor of God, we will confidently submit our cause to arguments of a free ballot.

"The day you have chosen for this visit suggests no thoughts that are not in harmony with the occasion. The republican party has walked in the light of the Declaration of Independence. It has lifted the shaft of patriotism upon the foundation laid at Bunker Hill. It has made a perfect union by making all men free. Washington and Lincoln, Yorktown and Appomattox, the Declaration of Independence and the Proclamation of Emancipation are naturally and worthily associated in our thoughts.

"As soon as may be possible I shall by letter communicate to your chairman a more formal acceptance of this nomination, but it is proper to say that I have already examined the platform with some care, and that its declarations, to some of which your chairman has alluded, are in harmony with my views.

"It gives me pleasure, gentlemen, to receive you in my home, and to thank you for the cordial manner in which you have conveyed your official message."

Long and hearty applause re-echoed through the house as General Harrison concluded his address, and reaching forth his hand he cordially grasped the extended hand of Chairman Estee, who then presented him with the official copy of his notification. Secretary Clisbee then handed the general an engrossed official copy of the republican platform.

The formalities of the occasion having been concluded, General Harrison instantly became a genial host, while Chairman Estee, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced each gentleman as they passed the ladies.

Convention of Democratic Clubs.

BALTIMORE, July 5.—The convention of democratic clubs' second session met this morning at the Academy of Music. Wm. E. Russell, of Massachusetts, temporary chairman, called the convention to order at half-past ten o'clock. The report of the committee on resolutions endorses the St. Louis platform; approves the administration of President Cleveland and his tariff message; expresses joy at the prospect of the early passage of the Mills bill, and points with pride to the record of Allen G. Thurman. The platform was adopted by acclamation amid a perfect storm of cheers.

The committee on permanent organization reported John A. Wipons of Wisconsin for president of the convention. On taking the chair Winans briefly addressed the convention, returning thanks for the high honor conferred on him and stating that the object of the gathering was to devise ways and means to defeat the enemy of our public institutions.

Congressman Tarsney of Michigan, chairman of the committee permanent organization, made the report of the committee and sub committee, and submitted the constitution of the national association of democratic clubs. The plan proposed was for the selection of a president and one vice president from each state and territory, one secretary and one treasurer. The following names were recommended for officers of the association. President, Hon. Chauncey F. Black, Pennsylvania; secretary, Edward B. Whitney, New York; treasurer, Geo. H. Lambert, New Jersey. Recess until 3 p. m.

A DYNAMITE PLOT.

Three Men Arrested on a Burlington Train,

Charged with Conspiracy to Destroy Q. Property

Dynamite Claimed to Have Been Used in Recent Attempts.

The East Visited by a Violent Wind and Rain Storm.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Thos. T. Hodgson and J. V. Rowe, members of the grand school of Locomotive Engineers, and a man named Wilson, were arrested on C., B. & Q. railroad train near Aurora this afternoon. They had dynamite in their possession, and are charged with conspiracy to destroy the railroad company's property. They are in the county jail, each under bond of $10,000.

It is stated that the Burlington company has had a large force of detectives for some time watching the movements of the strikers. It was discovered that dynamite was used in several unsuccessful attempts to wreck trains in the past month. Officials of the road state to-night that to-day was the day chosen for a grand attack upon the company's property. Officials are reticent regarding their sources of information, but the job is known to them, and they admit that besides the definite plan to blow up trains upon the tracks by means of dynamite cartridges, that it includes probabilities of an attack upon the depot property and magnificent office buildings here. Officials say that had the danger not been so imminent they would have allowed the conspirators to go on and criminate themselves further, but the plot had reached a stage where it was necessary to take decisive steps to prevent great destruction of property, not to say loss of life.

When the men were arrested to-day one of them took from his pocket a letter and threw it out of the window. The train was stopped and the letter picked up. It is now in the hands of District Attorney Ewing. He refuses to reveal its contents, but General Manager Stone intimated that it gave important information regarding the plot. The men appeared greatly agitated when arraigned in the United States commissioner's office here, and demanded that Chairman Hoge be sent for. When he arrived they recognized him at once, but he claimed not to know them.

Detectives found on the seat in the train where they arrested the three men several sticks of dynamite, and on opening a valise found a number of dynamite cartridges. The men disclaim all knowledge of this property, and say it doesn't belong to them. One of them is very much agitated, while the others are more composed. Neither of the three would tell his place of residence. They have been traveling about on the Q. system for some weeks past.

District Attorney Ewing arraigned the men under section 2,523, United States revised statutes, which relates to carrying high explosives on passenger trains. It is supposed this charge was brought temporarily until the Burlington officials can perfect their case. Commissioner Hayne held them in $5,000 bonds each for examination on the 13th. Hoge and Vice Grand Master Hanrahan, of the Firemen's brotherhood, informed the men that they could do nothing for them to-night and they were sent to jail.

General Manager Stone of the Burlington when interviewed would tell no more than given above; but he believed high officials of the brotherhood are connected with the conspiracy.

"I do not know any of those men," said Chairman Hoge to a reporter. "They may be members of the brotherhood, but I don't remember them. If their case is found worthy of investigation we will help them and get them bail."

On Broderick's person was found a brotherhood membership card, declaring him a member of Pottsville division No. 90. Broderick and Wilson had just come on from Creston, Iowa, where they were closely identified with the strikers. Wilson is supposed to be a striking fireman.

Heavy Storm in the East.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 5.—A furious rain, hail and wind storm passed over Albany at 5:30 p. m. today. Three great rain clouds appeared to meet directly over the city. Trees were blown down, yachts were wrecked, awnings ripped down and telephone wires were twisted and crossed. During the storm a circus tent collapsed.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 5.—This section of the country was visited by a very severe wind and rain storm this afternoon. Great damage was done to crops and buildings. The Pennsylvania round house at Millstone Junction was blown down. James Barry, Hugh Garry and John White, three ball players who were taking shelter from the storm, were buried in the ruins and badly injured. A barn on George Plumbley's farm near Middlebush was also blown down. Plumbley is reported killed. A dwelling and other buildings on the farm were wrecked. Terrible damage is reported hereabouts from wind, hail and lightning; also at Middletown and Millstone.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 5.—During a terrible storm here this afternoon the new incompleted Roman Catholic church was blown down.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 5.—The severest wind, hail, rain, thunder and lightning storm experienced in this city for many years prevailed this afternoon. Bartholomew Reagan and John Armstrong were struck by lightning and killed.

CHICAGO, July 5.—A Times special from Mason City, Iowa, says: A terrible devastating cyclone swept down yesterday upon a number of towns on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, and it is impossible at present to estimate the damage done. The extent of territory over which the storm swept was about a hundred miles in length and nearly the same in width. To the farming community the loss is severe. No deaths have yet been reported, but the loss in houses and cattle is enormous.

At Rockwell, two mammoth barns were demolished and a thousand pound hay press was carried several feet and overturned. An agricultural implement house was wrecked. Trapp Bros.' livery stables, the Kirkwood hotel, M. E. church, Odd Fellows' hall, Masonic hall, Hall's block, Dr. Hall's residence, Dr. Hall's office, Dr. Hall's barn, Dr. Hall's drug store

We call attention to the change in the advertisement of H. F. Reed & Son this morning. They offer some very desirable bargains.

There are undelivered telegrams at the Western Union telegraph office for Frank J. Primrose, E. E. Bourke, Henry W. Hallett and M. D. Griffin.

The barber shops will close to-day at noon. The banks and county offices will be closed during the entire day and at the postoffice Sunday hours will be observed.

There will be an important meeting of the Congregational church on Thursday evening to take action with reference to the letting of the contract for the new edifice. All members are urged to be present.

Willis Sweet, formerly editor of the Mountaineer, and who is well known in Colorado Springs, was a delegate to the Chicago convention from Idaho, and was a member of the committee on resolutions.

Yesterday morning a man entered the house at No. 330 South Tejon street while the occupants were in the yard and stole a silver watch and chain which had been left on the top of the piano in the sitting room.

County Surveyor Reid has just completed a large and accurate map of the county which has been placed in the county commissioners' room. It gives all the section, township and range lines, the railroads, county roads, and the course of all the dry and perpetual streams in the county. In the words of County Commissioner Skinner "it is a beauty."

Sells Brothers' mammoth circus will exhibit in this city to-morrow. It enjoys the distinction of being the best circus traveling in the west. The hippodrome is mentioned by the press abroad as presenting realistic and vividly exciting scenes of Rome's palmy days, and the circus offers a coterie of the best and most distinguished equestrian and gymnic performers in the profession. The elevated stage is devoted to such special features as could not otherwise be produced, and the menagerie contains an unlimited variety of the strange and curious in animated nature.

Under Sheriff Saxton returned from Buena Vista yesterday afternoon having in custody Oscar Crawford, who was arrested at that place on Monday afternoon for stealing three horses from a pasture in the eastern part of the city last Thursday night. When Crawford was arrested he was driving one of the horses in a buggy, which together with the harness, he claimed to have borrowed from W. A. Diebold of this city. The other two horses were found in a livery stable where Crawford had taken them on arriving in that city. As he endeavored to sell the buggy and harness he can be held for stealing them also. He will probably be given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Shideler next Monday morning.

Lovers of base ball will to-day have an opportunity of witnessing two well contested games. The Denver Five Points, the champion amateur club of the state, will meet the local club for the first time this season. Each will put forth every effort to win, and the game will be sharply contested at all points. The Five Points have two excellent pitchers in Marton and Bates, and backed up as they will be by two such star catchers as Pink and Everett, they will give the home club the hardest work which they have yet had. The positions of the two nines for the morning game will be as follows:

Colorado Springs.		Five Points.
W. J. McMahon	catcher	Pink
Lynch	2nd base	M McLaughlin
The Witt	short stop	A McLaughlin
Ferguson	right field	Everett
P. McMahon	pitcher	Marton
Fitzgerald	1st base	Bates
Smith	3rd base	Nichols
Hunter	center field	Wells

In the afternoon the batteries will be Bates and Everett for the Five Points and Ferguson and McMahon for the local club. Mr. Kelly, an old league umpire, will officiate in that capacity today, but in the afternoon game the double system of umpiring will be given a trial. The "bleaching boards" are finished and the management is prepared to accommodate the great crowds which will undoubtedly witness both games. The Five Points arrived on the late train last evening and are stopping at the Grand View hotel. The morning game will be called at 10 o'clock, and the afternoon game at half past three o'clock.

The excursion to Manitou Falls to-day will be the largest of the season. Over one thousand tickets have been sold and it is estimated that fully twice that number of people will visit this popular picnic ground during the day. The most elaborate preparations have been made for the comfort and pleasure of the excursionists. The lake is now filled with water and a number of good boats have been placed upon it. A large pavilion has been built near the station and in the afternoon an orchestra will furnish music for dancing. The ladies of St. Ann's Catholic church, under whose auspices the excursion is given, [illegible] the proceeds. The Fountain band will be in attendance a portion of the day. The following is the time table upon which trains will be run to the Falls to-day: Going—Trains leave Union depot as follows: 8.10, 9.30, 10.25 and 10.35 a. m.; 1.30 and 4.20 p. m. Returning—Trains leave Green Mountain Falls as follows: 9.15, 9.30 and 11.47 a. m.; 2.35, 5.30 and 6.30 p. m.

—We publish elsewhere a statement of St. Francis hospital. This hospital has already demonstrated its usefulness in this community and is worthy of the encouragement and help of this city.

—Eastern papers are commenting unfavorably on the minister who married the divorced Duke of Marlborough. If he make him respectable, there ought not to be any criticism on it.

—The campaign life of Harrison is to be written by his friend, General Lew Wallace, and will be ready early in August. The author of the most popular book published in this country in the last two years will be able to write a sketch that will make an impression.

—The people of Boston, like the people of Athens, are always interested in some new thing. An expert is there now, who proposes to teach how to write advertisements. There is at present, about twenty-five millions spent annually for newspaper advertising. It is of great importance to know how to spend this money judiciously. The wise advertiser usually spends the most money and gets the best results. Instead of having advertisements looking like a poster sheet, the best advertisers to-day use small type and avoid sensational statements. The advertisements are not usually display advertisements though there may be a striking line at the head. They are written in good taste and judgment, and are so to speak, attractive, a part of the paper in most of the reading matter. They usually have some interesting statements to make regarding their stocks and prices which are given in a plain matter of fact way, so that they convey confidence and attention.

—The Young Men's Republican club has removed the age limitation to membership, so that now all men above eighteen years of age who are republican in sympathy may become members. It will be an advantage, for every one who is a republican to join this club. It is not organized simply for political purposes. While the club may take an active part in the campaign, yet its main work will be of an educational character. At its monthly meetings there will be addresses by distinguished men. It is intended to have both sides represented, so that whoever chooses to attend the meetings may be able to vote intelligently. There are now about one hundred and twenty-five members of this club. Before the campaign closes it is likely to have three or four hundred. All republicans in this country are eligible. The work this organization proposes to do is very valuable for American citizenship. The only way that a man may now inform himself is through the press, and as the paper is usually partisan, this is not always an efficient way.

A Worthy Object.

Statement of St. Francis hospital from March 1st to July 1st, 1888. Patients for whom fee was received, 42; patients for whom no fee was received, 29; total number of patients, 71. As those who were unable to pay were obliged to remain longer, the number of poor patients in the hospital during the above period was always much larger than that of those for whom compensation was received.

To secure means to carry on their work for the relief of the suffering sick, and to enable them to pay the indebtedness on their new hospital, the sisters intend to solicit some contributions in the city in a few days. Relying on former kindnesses they are confident that they will not ask in vain.

THURMAN AND HIS UNCLE.

GOSSIP AND STORY ABOUT SOME OF THE OLD STATESMEN OF OHIO.

Allen—Thurman's Boyhood—His Character and Blaine's Ability at Ross—How He Lives at Columbus.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, June 21.—I met Allen G. Thurman's son here at Washington the other day. He is a tall, broad shouldered, fine looking fellow of 35, who has nothing of the political cast of his father. He told me that Judge Thurman was very well, that he is now living in his new house at Columbus and that his health is better than it has been for years. I met Senator Thurman at the convention of 1884, which nominated Cleveland, and he interviewed him as to his condition at that time. Chicago was filled with politicians, and not a few of them went about with red bandanna handkerchiefs tied about their hats in honor of the Ohio senator. Mr. Thurman was receiving calls by the hundreds, and he had stood the siege very well. He told me that he weighed 240 pounds and he had the stomach of an ox. [illegible] pointed to not getting the nomination, though this year's convention bore some resemblance, made up for the past, and his life during the past ten years has not been one of ease.

He was brought up in Chillicothe, O., and was a neighbor of Senator William Allen. Allen did a great deal for him, but a feud arose between them, and it was, it is said, the luck of Allen's support, that prevented Thurman from getting the presidential nomination at the time Tilden was nominated. I met a relative of Bill Allen's at Chillicothe some time ago and had a long talk with him about the Allen-Thurman feud. He told me it began in 1844 and at once from Thurman's desire for the presidency. This was the year that Allen was elected governor of Ohio. The Democratic party was in a bad way and Thurman wanted a reelection to the senate. Allen had gone into retirement at his Fruit Hill farm, and when he was asked if he would accept the nomination, he said that he did not care for the governorship of Ohio. It was nothing but a fuss for the signing of justice of the peace commissions, and it was only a blank petit jury once, anyway. It was not until just before the convention met that Allen consented to take the nomination, and he finally accepted it only because of a telegram which Thurman sent him asking him to take the place for his sake and for the sake of the party. The story of the campaign is well known. It put Allen to the front in Ohio politics and Thurman fell to the rear. Talk at once sprung up of the advisability of nominating Allen for the presidency in 1876, but Thurman in the meantime had grown jealous and gave him no active support in the second campaign for the governorship.

The result was that when Thurman was a candidate for the presidency at St. Louis Allen did not offer him his support, and the other elements of the Ohio Democracy went against him. The Payne and Jewett factions had their own candidates in the field and Tilden got the nomination.

The above story I give for what it is worth. The man who told it had the possession of all of Allen's papers, and there is no doubt in his mind but Thurman would have been a presidential candidate long ago had he courted rather than slighted his uncle.

Senator Thurman is, however, a greater man than was the noted "Fog Horn" Allen. He is broader minded, better educated and more highly cultured. Allen was a sort of a rough diamond, whose polishing was all done in the school of active politics. He had one of the strongest voices that was ever heard in the United States senate, and he was known as Fog Horn Allen or the Ohio Gong.

Senator Edmunds says Thurman is the greatest lawyer in the United States. He was at Chillicothe that he first studied law, and there are citizens at Chillicothe who remember him as a boy. I met one of these during a recent visit there, and I asked him what kind of a child young Thurman was. He replied:

"Allen G. Thurman's father was named Pleasant Thurman. He was a traveling Methodist preacher, and when he came here he settled down and took up the business of wool carding and spinning. He brought his boy Allen and his wife with him, and young Allen Thurman was rather a fine looking boy with a fair face and a fairly good face. His head was a little too big for his body and he was not what you call a beauty. The Thurman family were poor, as were most preachers' families in those days, and Allen's mother taught school to help fill the family pocketbook. She was a bright woman, and it was from her that young Allen got his first instruction. He afterwards went to the Chillicothe academy, which was then a very good school. He then got a position in the postoffice here as a clerk, and while dealing out letters learned surveying. He then studied law and practiced till he went into politics. He spent all his boyhood here and he had made something of a reputation when he went to Columbus to live."

"What kind of a man was Senator Allen?" I asked.

"We call him Bill Allen down here," was the reply, "and we all liked him. He lived most of the time at his farm near here and his grave is over there in the cemetery. His wife lies there too, and Allen thought everything of her. She died at Washington while he was in congress. It was before the days of railroads and he carried her body home over the mountains, riding on horseback beside the wagon in which they put the coffin. He sat up every night with the corpse and he had his little daughter along with him. This daughter is now married and she lives here. The senator and his wife lie side by side over there in the graveyard."

Dr. Scott, who was Bill Allen's son-in-law and who married the little daughter who made this dreary trip over the mountains, told me that a biography of Senator Allen might be published in the future and that the papers which he left were valuable. He said that Allen seldom wrote letters himself and never answered them when he could help it. He never wrote out his speeches, but spoke extempore after studying up the subjects. He told me that Allen was especially fond of Scott's novels, that he was a great student of Shakespeare and that he was the best posted on historical matters of any man in the state of Ohio at the time of his death.

Returning to Thurman, he could write a very good book of reminiscences, if he would. He was nominated for congress in 1844, and he has been in the active whirl of politics ever since. He has known all of the great men of the past generation, and he has made, perhaps, as much newspaper story as any other man alive except Ben Butler. His friends have not been confined to the Democratic party, and one of the highest compliments Blaine pays to any one in his book, he pays to Thurman. He says:

"Mr. Thurman's rank in the senate was established from the day he took his seat, and it was never lowered during the period of his service. He was an admirably disciplined debater, was fair in his method of statement, logical in his argument, honest in his conclusions. He had no tricks in discussion, no catch phrases to secure attention, but was always direct and manly. His mind was not preoccupied and engrossed with political contest or with affairs of state. He had natural and cultivated tastes outside of those fields. He was an discriminating reader, and enjoyed not only serious books but inclined also to the lighter indulgence of romance and poetry. He was especially fond of [illegible] and Scott's novels, and could quote with rare enjoyment the humorous scenes depicted by Balzac. He took pleasure in the drama and was devoted to music. In Washington he could usually be found in the best seat of the theatre when a good play was to be presented or an opera was to be given. These tastes illustrated the genial side of his nature, and were a fitting complement to the stronger and sterner elements of the man. His retirement from the senate was a serious loss to his party—a loss, indeed, to the body."

[illegible] strong elements of his nature. He seldom loses his head, and he is, as John Randolph used to say, as cool as the center block of a cucumber. His talk as vice presidential candidate on long for the party is based on a good record in this regard. It recalls how he repulsed a man who wished to wean him away from the Democratic party. It was about the time of the panic of 1873, when the Greenbackers were at their highest, and when a number of new parties were in the field. There was a convention of one of these parties at Columbus, and several delegates, two of whom were old friends of Thurman's and who had been strong Democrats, called upon him. They found him sitting in the library of his drab house on High street. They told their story, and said they thought they could make him president of the United States, and with him they could break up the Democratic party and defeat the Republican party.

"Ah," said Thurman, and he looked soberly down at the table.

Then the spokesman again began his speech, but Thurman interrupted him with the question:

"My friend, what do you imagine the size of this room to be?"

"It is sixteen feet square, I judge," was the reply; "but why do you ask?"

"Because, sir," said Thurman, pulling out his red bandanna and violently wiping his nose, "because, sir, this room, sir, is too small to destroy the Democratic party in. Good day, gentleman, good day," and that was the end of the conversation.

Judge Thurman is now about, 74 years old. His work in the courts has shown that his mind is as active as it has been for years and he may do a great deal of good work yet. He is a man of means; his wife brought to him a fortune and he has made another himself. He has trained himself to enjoy life and he gets a great deal of pleasure out of the reading of French novels in the original. When he was on the supreme bench of Ohio he was very fond of mathematics, and while he was in the United States senate he played as good a game of whist as any man in Washington. The young men made a good chief justice of the United States and he is fully as well fitted for the bench as for congress. He keeps up with politics matters, uses a stenographer in the carrying on of his correspondence and is in reality leading a rather active life. He made a speech on the tariff last fall that showed that his oratorical abilities are as strong as they have ever been, and if he would work at it, he could turn out a very interesting and a very profitable work on the history of the country. Governor Hoadley of Cincinnati once said to me that Ohio never allows a man to get more than two feet high before it wants to cut off his head. This has been true with both parties in Ohio, and Thurman's career in this respect runs almost parallel with that of Sherman. Both have been for years conceded to be great statesmen by the nation, and both have been fought by men within their own parties and defeated again and again. Thurman had Tom Ewing, Hugh J. Jewett, Henry B. Payne and John R. McLean against him, and his opponents were all good men. Payne succeeded in getting the United States senatorship and McLean would have taken Sherman's place had Ohio gone Democratic that year. Sherman might have been nominated for the presidency in the place of Garfield had not Ohio had another great Republican.

Henry B. Payne will probably close his senatorial career with this term. He is too old a man to receive a nomination and the Ohio Democracy is calling for young blood. I am told that John McLean is ambitious to go to the senate, and I hear also the friends of Col Brice, the railroad millionaire, supposing him as a desirable candidate. There are numbers of smaller men in Ohio politics who will come to the front when a senator is to be chosen, but it is probable that the next Democratic nominee will be a young man. As to Sherman, he has five years yet to serve and the term of his service will expire in 1893. He will probably have a re-election, if he wants it, though Foraker or Foster may be among his contestants. Five years means a great deal in politics, but the present generation of statesmen is fast passing away. The generation of men born since the war is striving to get the hand on the reins of the government. It is a young giant and it will in time push the old men to the wall.

FRANK G. CARPENTER.

A YOUNG AMERICAN ABROAD.

Ayr, the Birthplace of Burns—The Brig o' Doon.

[Special Correspondence.]

AYR, Scotland, June 9.—The great battle between the Gladstonians and the old tories is now raging all around the birth place and all through the life haunts of Robert Burns, and there is such an uproar that, to borrow an Irishism, if the poet could be alive now, he'd really be glad he was dead and out of it. Of course Burns would be a Gladstonian Home Ruler if he were alive, for he was a bit of a Liberal in his time, and nobody ever heard of a real poet taking sides against an increase of liberty. Once in a while a poet outlives his power, and becomes a wretched apologist for Toryism, as Tennyson is now taking back what he said in "Locksley Hall," and two or three times in history a poet has sold his talents to the court as John Dryden did; but all the real live poets are on the side of emancipation, popular freedom and progress, so we know that Burns, who favored conciliation to America, would now favor more freedom in Ireland.

There is something in the very air of the Burns neighborhood that rouses the inspiration of freedom; the "Bonnie Doon" brawling over its rocky bed, the wild and romantic hills that line it, the gently rolling uplands, the rich green of the fields and pure air rolling in from the Atlantic—all these make one feel as if he were on freedom's holy ground. And one cannot rightly appreciate Burns' poems till he rambles over the country. Here is the "Brig o' Doon" just as it was in Burns' time; here is the low cottage (Americans are inclined to call it a hovel) in which he was born; all around are the fields of his boyhood, not materially changed, and not far away the sublime heights which never change. The "wee modest daisies," the blue bells, the heather and all the grasses and shrubs of the poems are still here, and the Scotchiest of Scotch people. One needs a glossary of Burns' poems to travel here especially. But the town of Ayr is wonderfully changed. It is a city, and a thriving one. I said the love of home rule was in the air; it was also strong in Ayr, where Gladstone is almost worshiped.

The language of this country, by the way, the language in which Burns' popular songs are written, is not the ancient language of Scotland, not the Gaelic; it is really a branch of the original Anglo-Danish-Saxon, about what that of middle and northern England would be if there had been no Norman invasion, and very much what that of Northumberland is where education has not Normanized the people. The old Gaelic (commonly pronounced Gailic) is almost extinct, but the Scotch of Burns' time is still spoken in force and beauty by millions. And we Americans no doubt lose much of the beauty of his simple lyrics and lighter satires by having to study out the meaning of every third or fourth word. Nor is it in the words alone; it is in the peculiar and forceful idioms that the strength lies. To the people who realize at once the meanings of these idioms there is both keen wit and homely wisdom in the satires aimed at the clergy. It is not the least of Burns' titles to [illegible] that many of the [illegible] would otherwise never have heard a word of it.

A Fire Calamity.

MARYSVILLE, Cal., July 5.—A disastrous fire broke out here early this morning, raging in the block in which the most valuable business houses in the city are located. The fire continued to spread for two hours and the whole block with the exception of two buildings was destroyed. The principal losers were sustained by W. T. Ellis & Co., $12,000; Frost & Shaffer, $10,000; C. J. Roody, $22,000; C. Glidden, $50,000. Total loss about $150,000; insurance estimated at $90,000.

General Vilas Protests.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The repeated protest by Postmaster General Vilas against extension of the civil service rule to employes of the railway mail service has excited considerable interest in Washington, and numerous requests have been made for a copy of the letter. Up to the present writing [illegible] copy of any such letter. It is probable that whenever the formal protest of the postmaster general was made it was an oral one, and it may have been made in a cabinet meeting.

A Royal Match Proposed.

LONDON, July 5.—The Standard's correspondent at St. Petersburg says: It is reported a marriage is being arranged between the czarovitch and one of Emperor William's sisters. General Von Paper during his session here broached the subject to the czar, who gave his cousin approval. Prince Bismarck is in favor of such a match, and this is his reason for opposing the Battenberg-Victoria marriage, which would have made impossible a match between Victoria's sister and the czarovitch.

Collapse of a Grand Stand.

MARIANNA, July 5.—While 300 or 400 people were seated in a grand stand on the grounds of the Columbia County Mississippi Fair association yesterday the supports gave way without warning and the structure fell to the ground. No one was killed outright, but nearly fifty people were taken from the ruins with broken arms and limbs, bruised bodies and almost every conceivable wound. Some of the wounded, it is thought, cannot live.

Aid for O'Brien.

NEW YORK, July 5. A special meeting of the New York city division No. 105, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, was held on the 3rd inst. It was decided to assess the members of this division $2 per month for three months or more if necessary, and to do unto the same to members engaged in the strike on the C. B. & Q. railway.

Iron Works Starting Up.

PITTSBURG, July 5.—To-night Moorehead Brothers, iron manufacturers of Sharpsburg, Pa., signed the Amalgamated scale, making 16 signatures thus far. The Republican Iron Works, Oliver Bros. & Phillips, and two of Carnegie's mills started up to-day.

Herding Cattle on the Prairie.

Besides the herding of cattle is usually a lonely business. The boy is sent off in the morning with the herd, and taking his luncheon with him, spends the whole day there, in most cases alone. Thus he soon exhausts the few excitements which vary the monotony of the day, and quickly the day is apt to become work. The cattle are mainly quiet, and do not stray much; battles are comparatively few, and only occasionally do they burst forth in the fury I have described.

In a few days, therefore, the boy falls back upon the companionship of his horse. After he has been taught never to trot a step, but to go from the walk to the lope, he learns to be guided by the pressure of the knee of his master; he no longer feels the rein; he must steer short when chasing a steer wheel like a flash, guided by the weight of his rider thrown on one side or the other. He must learn to race a fractious steer so nicely as to turn him in a circle back to the herd, never getting so far ahead of him as to allow of his turning the opposite way. All this takes time, but time is no object to the herder, and if his pupil beat finally that he can guide his herd in any direction without bridle or saddle on his horse.—Hamlin Garland in American Magazine.

An Editor Befriends the Clam.

"Don't be a clam" is a warning that meets one very frequently nowadays. Well, why not? What's the matter with a clam? He's all right. If he fulfills his mission and makes the most of himself, what more could be expected, and what more does any person do. The clam is as well born, as well bred and as respectable as the oyster, yet nobody thinks of speaking disrespectfully of the oyster. What has the clam done that it should be made a target of ridicule? Nobody ever heard of a clam getting drunk, lying, cheating at cards, abusing dumb animals, putting a little dog's eyes out, or doing any of the thousand things by which men distinguish themselves from brutes. The clam is yet to be heard from. Perhaps he would say: "Don't be a man."—Indianapolis Journal.

BASE BALL.

Two Well Played Games on Monday and Afternoon.

The lovers of base ball had the pleasure of witnessing two fine exhibitions of the game on Wednesday. The [illegible] Chicago Maroons [illegible] this week. They have a number of good players and if Baker they have a prominent [illegible] who can be found any where. Both games were well attended and proved very interesting. When the home club turned out the honors in the morning contest, then admirers felt confident that they would do fully as well in the afternoon, but in the latter game the visiting players were completely at home here. However the score remained even until the fatal eighth when by a succession of miscalculations and the [illegible] of a few hits the visitors secured five runs and won the game. The games throughout in brilliant plays on both sides. Dexter surpassed his friends by his clever work with the stick and [illegible] which into a veritable sieve. The following is the summarized score of the morning game and the detailed score of the afternoon contest:

MORNING GAME.

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Colorado Springs	2	0	0	0	1	0	4	0	0
Five Points	1	0	1	0	2	0	0	2	0

Three base hit—Bates. M. McLaughlin. Double plays—F. McMahon, Fitzgerald and Smith.

Earned runs—Five Points 2, Colorado Springs 4.

Struck out—By Ferguson 4, by Bates 12. Base on balls—By Ferguson 1, by Bates 2. Passed balls—W. J. McMahon 1, Kerwin 2. Umpire—Kelly.

The umpiring of Kelly was the best ever witnessed on the local grounds, and was quite impartial. A number of his decisions were heartily applauded.

COLORADO CITY.

A Creditable and Successful Observance of the National Holiday.

The Fourth of Colorado City dawned clear and beautiful, and early and active preparations were made to fittingly observe the day. The reports of innumerable firecrackers greeted the rising sun, and the smoke and smell of burning powder on Colorado avenue rivaled those of Junots to the historic tragedy at Lexington. In accordance with the previously announced programme, a procession formed at the corner of Colorado avenue and West First street at nine o'clock in the morning. It was headed by the Colorado City cornet band, which furnished excellent music during the day and in fact made a remarkable showing considering that they had been practicing as an [illegible] but a week.

Nearly all the business houses of the city were closed from an early hour in the forenoon until four o'clock in the evening. Several of the local industries were represented in the procession, which was otherwise composed of city officials, the fire department, large numbers of private carriages, and—most attractive of all the Stand car bearing young ladies representing the states and territories of the union. Dr. S. T. Bussey, of Colorado Springs, deserves particular credit for the success of this feature of the procession. He transformed an ordinary hay rack on wheels into a gorgeous car of state. Every part of the vehicle was profusely and tastefully decorated with flags and bunting, and it formed a pageant in itself.

The line of march extended along Colorado avenue to Love's grove, in the western outskirts, where there had been prepared an immense barbecue. Roast meats of all kinds and other essentials to a palatable dinner were served to all free of charge.

Prof. J. M. Jackson, the orator of the day, delivered an eloquent and forcible oration, which aroused much enthusiasm and evoked merited applause. Mr. J. A. Cochran, editor of the News, and others briefly addressed the crowd.

For some reason, presumably the heat, the majority of the races arranged for did not come off. The only event of interest under this head was a race between two burros, one belonging to Mr. Alvin Stump and the other the property of Mr. Henry Coby. It was not a very fast race, but Mr. Stump's animal won easily amidst great excitement. Time, not recorded.

Mr. J. F. Clark, marshal of the day, did himself credit, and the best of order was maintained. In every respect the affair was a success, and the citizens who exerted themselves to make it so are deserving of the highest praise. About $350 was expended, $100 of which was appropriated by the council and the remainder subscribed by citizens.

In the evening there was a grand display of fireworks from the brow of the mesa north of town, and the festivities of the day were concluded with a ball by the Adams Hose company at the Adams block. A large number were in attendance, and a neat sum was realized from the sale of tickets. It will be devoted to the purchase of uniforms for the hose company.

Quite an exciting episode of yesterday morning was a runaway which occurred on Tejon street just after the circus parade. A horse attached to a carriage became frightened and dashed down the crowded thoroughfare. Following the procession were a number of cowboys from the round-up which has been working near the city for some days. One of the boys seeing the horse start spurred his horse and followed in hot pursuit, [illegible] the time reaching the [illegible] opposite the [illegible] by a skillful throw the mustang [illegible] the fright. THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1888.

Mr. Henry Hubach, of Hannaway, visited the city yesterday.

There will be a regular meeting of the board of trade at the city hall this evening. A full attendance of members is requested.

Meshane, Clough & Moore, the sewerage contractors began work on the sewerage system near the outlet Yesterday afternoon with a force of about twenty men.

At the Congregational church the observance of the Lord's supper and the admission of members to the church, which were postponed from last Sabbath, will take place next Sabbath, July 8.

Mr. J. C. Osgood, of New York, who is stopping at The Antlers, gave a picnic to a party of seventeen at Monument Park on Wednesday. An elegant lunch was served in the park by Mr. C. W. Collins, the efficient head waiter of The Antlers.

It is estimated that 2500 people went to Green Mountain Falls on Wednesday. A delightful day was passed at this favorite picnic ground, and the ladies of St. Ann's Catholic church will realize a handsome sum from the proceeds of their excursion.

The Colorado Springs club will play a return game with the Pueblo club at Pueblo next Sunday. On next Tuesday afternoon the two clubs will play in this city. A game is scheduled for the 14th inst. in this city between the Socal and the Goldes clubs.

The police magistrate had a busy day yesterday and disposed of a large number of cases. Nine men were fined $1 and costs for exposing fire works contrary to the mayor's proclamation. Two were fined $3 and costs for fast driving and one man paid $3 and costs for drunkenness.

The College Park conservatory made a very elaborate display of fireworks from the summit of Pike's Peak between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock on Wednesday night. The display consisted of several dozen Roman candles and rockets, and other combustibles. The exhibit was a fine one and was greatly enjoyed by those who witnessed it.

Sells Bros. circus visited the city yesterday, and exhibited to large crowds both in the afternoon and evening. The menagerie is quite complete and includes many rare zoological curiosities. The ring performance was considerably above the average of those which have been given in this city by other circuses. Sells Bros. have introduced several new features into their show which add to the interest of the performances.

On Tuesday night a fire broke out in the timber in Queens canon, a couple of miles above Glen Eyrie. It raged furiously Wednesday and yesterday, and has apparently covered a large area. It is thought that the fire can only be extinguished by a heavy shower. It is not known how the conflagration started, but it is supposed that a fire balloon which was sent up from Colorado City on Tuesday night, and proceeded in a northwesterly direction dropped into the timber before the fire had been extinguished.

There was a largely attended meeting of the members of the Congregational church called for the purpose of considering the bids for the new church. The building committee reported the amounts of the various bids which had been submitted and on motion that of Joseph Dozier of $23,720 was accepted. The committee were authorized to close a contract with Mr. Dozier to that work upon the structure could begin at an early date. Mr. Dozier's contract does not include the glass, seats or heating apparatus. It is estimated that these fixtures will cost $4500 additional.

REAL ESTATE, LOANS AND INSURANCE

Special Attention Given to the Collection of Rent, Interest, etc., and the care of Property of Persons out of Town.

Insurance Carefully Written in First-Class Companies Only.

Losses Promptly and Satisfactorily Adjusted.

STRANGERS, and others not posted in our Real Estate Market, often ask the question, "Where can I best invest my money to be sure of Quick and Profitable returns?"

1st. I would say, select a locality where you have the most SUNSHINE, the finest view of our GRAND MOUNTAIN SCENERY, etc.

2nd. See that you locate where you can enjoy the best WATER ADVANTAGES that our city affords. A home without water in this country is a desert; and when I say "BEST WATER ADVANTAGES" I mean not only for irrigating purposes, which is very important, but also for all DOMESTIC PURPOSES. Our water supply at present is limited, and unless greatly increased the time is near at hand, if not already here, when every drop will be used for public purposes—Low priced LOTS bring low priced HOUSES, such as PALACE surrounded by quantities will never sell for half its cost. Better groundnuts in other ways and secure a lot that will increase in value.

3rd. Do not locate where lots are too low in price. Better groundnuts in other ways and secure a lot that will increase in value.

4th. Don't be misled by "Rock Island" cranes in and then pay 25 per cent more than present rates. Don't be misled by "Rock Island" cranes in and then pay 25 per cent more than present rates.

5th. Call at my office and I will convince you that "BOULDER HEIGHTS" possesses all the above advantages.

"You can fool some of the people all the time, you can fool all of the people some of the time, but you can not fool all the people all the time."

Merchants who publish silly advertisements ponder on this profitably.

Is it better to deal with Clothiers who claim everything and show very little, or to patronize a house that professes only what it can perform?

We have a great stock of things that men wear. Our Clothing is carefully selected and well made. Choose your apparel HERE, because we can fit you, and after you once learn the merits of our goods we believe you will continue to use them.
